I. Introduction to the Supplement

There are Bible Colleges that are expanding the depth and range of their academic programs. Some now have graduate programs. This is also now the information age. We must now have faster and more accurate access to a larger mass of information. Almost all fields of scholarly study now have bibliographies of various types.

Therefore, the Accrediting Association of Bible Colleges publishes suggested bibliographies. These will be useful to instructors in compiling course bibliographies. To librarians, in collection development. To all, in literature citations.

The records in this Supplement were selected from publisher's catalogs, distributor's catalogs, book reviews, Current Christian Books, Books In Print, and other sources. Not entered in this Supplement were the following: Sunday school and day school items. A special effort has been made in locating suitable materials of Pentecostal and Charismatic interest. Included are Cult, Eastern Orthodox, Jewish, and Roman Catholic items. Due attention was paid to the ACL criteria. These are listed in J. R. Muntz' Theological Supplement of 1994.

Included in this Supplement are two new indices: a Series Acronym Index, and a Publishers Index. These will assist the user in assessing the value of the records. These will reduce the bulk of the Bibliography and the Author Index.

This editor has not seen the large majority of the materials listed in this Supplement. The basis of selection and placement has been book reviews, the reputation of the author and publisher, and the subject implied by the title. Obviously, if this Supplement could be reworked, there would be some changes.

Dr. Randall Bell of the AABC, the ACL, and I desire clarity on a certain vital issue. A listing in this Supplement does NOT imply recommendation of the item's value, and certainly NOT approval of the belief system affirmed by the item's author. This Supplement is not a collection evaluation tool.

The records included in this Supplement are of books, published dissertations, and journal articles, and are in English. Most are/were published in Great Britain, the U.S.A., and a few are translations of German works. The inclusion of records of materials printed in Spanish, and of computer software, is desirable. Lack of time, and suitable computer record formats, preclude these desirable ends. There is a future possibility of publishing this Supplement on HD discs. Your editor is already working toward this desirable goal.

We trust that this Supplement will be of great value to our librarians, faculty, and students, as they serve our Great God and Savior, the Lord Jesus Christ. Amen.

April 1997. Whiting, NJ. WEC.
II. Subject Heading List

This Subject Heading List uses the same major divisions as does G. J. Flokstra's Outline of Categories. Most of his terminology and specific outline codes are also used. Some of the specific outline codes are not used, due to lack of records. Some codes are expanded. Note subject D4, which is now divided into four new subjects. This is due to the large quantity of important new books in this subject.

The computer program that your editor uses, is limited to a four place subject heading code. G. J. Flokstra has used codes with up to six places. There is therefore a substantial rearrangement of these codes, so as to limit them to four places.

A computer data base search problem has been solved by adding the numeral "0" to the right end of some codes. This distinguishes these codes from longer following codes that have the same first two or three characters.

Note that the format of this Subject Heading List has been condensed, now using 3 pages, rather than ten.

III. Bibliography

The records are printed in Turabian format. Leading articles of titles are eliminated, or occasionally placed at the rear. The title occasionally uses an editor’s comment in square brackets []. If the record is of a book having more than one volume, the quantity of volumes follows the title, in italics. Next is the series statement, if any. If this is a rarely mentioned series, it is spelled out in non-italics. If it is a often mentioned series, an acronym is used, enclosed in round brackets (). See the Series Acronym Index, located at the rear of this Bibliography. If the series has a known quantity of books, this follows the series (do not confuse with volumes per book, previously mentioned). The edition follows. If the publisher is well known, minimal data is supplied, and the date of publication. See the Index of Publishers for the publishers full name. If not well known, an attempt has been made to add full data within the record. Last, there may be an editor’s comment.

Note especially: Some volumes of Bible commentaries include more than one Bible book, ie Judges - Ruth, Ezra - Nehemiah, Titus - Philemon. Search carefully!

INDEX: TITLE (NO AUTHOR), ALPHABETIC

This title index references only the few records for which an author cannot be found. Extensive research by Mr. Lynn R. Anderson has greatly reduced the quantity of such records. The sequence of the format is as follows:
1. Title in italics, no leading articles, with any editors comment in square brackets.
2. Quantity of volumes in italics, but see # 4 below.
3. Series statement, or series acronym in round brackets, non-italic.
4. Quantity of volumes in the above series, non-italic.
6. Bibliographic subject heading (see listing in front of this book) in non-italic.

INDEX: AUTHOR, ALPHABETIC

The researcher may use this index if the main interest is finding works produced by a particular author. Note that the author and title data are often abbreviated. Refer to the main bibliography for complete bibliographic data. This is done by noting the subject heading used in the record. Refer to the table of contents for the page numbers associated with the main divisions of the subject headings.

The sequence of the format, following Turabian, is as follows:
1. Author in non-italics.
2. Title in italics, no leading articles, followed by editors comments in square brackets, in non-italics.
3. Quantity of volumes in italics, but see #5 below.
4. Series statement. If a series acronym, it will be in round brackets. Non-italic for either.
   (Refer to the Series Acronym Index for complete data, including publisher).
5. Quantity of volumes in the above series, in non-italics (but note # 3 above).
7. Bibliographic subject heading in non-italic. (See Subject Heading List).
